

Music at the Barn

a Fundraiser for the Therapeutic Equestrian Center

Saturday, May 20th • 4:00 p.m.

537 Northampton Street • Holyoke, MA

Join us for a late afternoon concert with critically acclaimed singer-songwriter, Jill Sobule, at the picturesque grounds of the Therapeutic Equestrian Center. Bring a comfy chair, a picnic meal, and we'll provide drinks & sweet treats for sale.

Tickets available online at www.equestriantherapy.org for $35/person.

(All proceeds will directly benefit TEC.)

IMPORTANT NOTE: No alcoholic beverages or pets allowed. Thank you.

Jill Sobule is a Denver-born, critically acclaimed, singer-writer with over 11 albums and more than two decades of recording and performing. 1995's Jill Sobule proved a major popular breakthrough and included the hit singles "Supermodel" (featured in Clueless) and the original, "I Kissed A Girl".

Considered a pioneer in the crowdsourcing revolution, Jill remains a prolific, and diverse, writer and performer today. Jill has recently collaborated on a re-imagining of the 1970 Broadway play "Yentl" as well as on the original musical, "Times Square".

In addition, Sobule is a vocal political force, contributing songs, essays, and poetry to NPR, The Huffington Post, and more, while regularly performing at TED conferences, house concerts, and charity events across the country, including a recent series of concerts for inmates imprisoned across the country.

Her latest project is "My Song Is My Weapon" – an online platform for artists and musicians to showcase their more socially conscious and political work.
